The Yellow Wallpaper
"The Yellow Wallpaper" is a classic work of feminist literature by Gilman, a social reformer, essayist, fiction writer, and poet. The story is partly autobiographical, dramatizing the "rest cure" that Gilman underwent.

Othello
First performed in 1604, Othello is the tragic tale of a war hero roused to a jealous rage by rumors of his wife's infidelity. At the play's opening, the "Moorish" (North African) general Othello has just eloped with Desdemona, the beautiful daughter of Brabantio, a Venetian senator.

Incidents in the Life of a Slave Girl
Harriet Jacobs published the autobiography Incidents in the Life of a Slave Girl in 1861. The personal account detailed her life in the first half of the nineteenth century as an enslaved person in Edenton, North

Interpreter of Maladies
"Interpreter of Maladies" is a short story by Jhumpa Lahiri, an American writer of Indian descent. It was first published in 1998 in Agni Review and then reprinted in 1999 as the title story in the author's first short-story collection, which was awarded the Pulitzer Prize. A & P
Perhaps the best-known story by John Updike (1932-2009), "A & P" describes the experience of Sammy, a grocery-store clerk, on an afternoon in which three girls enter his store wearing only bathing suits. As he watches

The Absolutely True Diary of a Part-Time Indian
The Absolutely True Diary of a Part-Time Indian (2007) is the seventh book of fiction by Sherman Alexie, probably the most well-known Native American writer of the twenty-first century. It is his first book written

Adventures of Huckleberry Finn
Although probably no other work of American literature has been the source of so much controversy, Mark Twain's The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn is regarded by many as the greatest literary achievement the United States

All Quiet on the Western Front
Generally regarded as one of the finest pieces of twentieth-century war literature, Remarque's All Quiet on the Western Front (1928) is now regularly incorporated into school curricula as both a representative work of

Angels in America
Angels in America is the first major work of playwright Tony Kushner, and its astounding success has turned the man and his writing into cultural icons of the late-twentieth century. Referred to by scholar John M. Clum

Animal Farm
Animal Farm by George Orwell (1903-1950) is one of the most famous allegorical novels of the twentieth century. It illustrates the growth of authoritarianism in the Soviet Union through a story about barnyard animals

Araby
One of the most popular short stories by James Joyce (1882-1941), "Araby" first appeared in the collection Dubliners (1914), a group of stories set in late-nineteenth-century Dublin.

Aurora Leigh
As early as 1844, Elizabeth Barrett wrote Robert Browning that she was thinking about writing a novel in verse form on modern themes. Several years later, she began work on Aurora Leigh (1857), which turned into one of the longest...

The Awakening
Critics generally regard Kate Chopin's novel The Awakening as an important and influential work of American fiction, as well as a landmark book in the history of women's literature. First published in 1899, The Awakening relates the story of Edna...

The Ballad of Birmingham
Published in 1965, "Ballad of Birmingham" is significant both as an example of Dudley Randall's use of traditional poetic form to talk about political events and as the first broadside—a large, single-sheet publication—to appear in...

Barn Burning
First published in the June 1929 issue of Harper's Magazine, "Barn Burning" is widely regarded as one of the most powerful and accomplished short stories written by William Faulkner (1897-1962).

Bartleby the Scrivener
"Bartleby the Scrivener" was written by Herman Melville in 1853 and was first published in Putnam's Magazine in the November/December issue of that year. The plot involves one man's difficulty in coping with his employee's peculiar form...

Bastard Out of Carolina
In her discussion of Dorothy Allison's literary career in Feminist Writers, Deborah T. Maem writes, "For Allison, writing is a dramatic, life-affirming act in a world which consistently threatens death. A storyteller since childhood..."

Because I could not stop for Death
Perhaps Dickinson's most famous work, "Because I Could Not Stop for Death" is generally considered to be one of the great masterpieces of American poetry. Written around 1863, the poem was published in Dickinson's first posthumous...

Beowulf
The first surviving major poem in English literature, Beowulf presents an account of medieval warriors, heroes, and monsters. The work is written in Old English and consists of 3,182 lines, relatively short for an epic

The Birth-Mark
"The Birth-Mark" (often written as "The Birthmark") is an allegorical short story by American author Nathaniel Hawthorne. The story was first published in 1843 in the

Brave New World
A classically dystopic vision of the future, Huxley's Brave New World (1932) is both a traditional science fiction novel and a social critique. The book is notable not only for its strongly

Below the dialog, the "PERSONAL INFORMATION" section is visible, starting with "Born July 21, 1899, in Oak Park, IL; committed suicide, July 2, 1961, in Ketchum, ID; son of Clarence Edmunds (a physician) and Grace (a music teacher; maiden name, Hall) Hemingway: married Hadley Richardson, September 3, 1921 (divorced March 10, 1927); married Pauline Pfeiffer (a writer), May 10, 1927 (divorced November 4, 1940); married Martha Gellhorn (a writer), November 21, 1940 (divorced December 21, 1945); married Mary Welsh (a writer), March 14, 1946; children: (first marriage) John Hadley".

The Yellow Wallpaper

"The Yellow Wallpaper" is a classic work of feminist literature by Gilman, a social reformer, essayist, fiction writer, and poet. The story is partly autobiographical, dramatizing the "rest cure" that Gilman underwent.

Othello

First performed in 1604, Othello is the tragic tale of a war hero roused to a jealous rage by rumors of his wife's infidelity. At the play's opening, the "Moorish" (North African) general Othello has just eloped with Desdemona, the beautiful daughter of Brabantio, a Venetian senator.

Incidents in the Life of a Slave Girl

Harriet Jacobs published the autobiography Incidents in the Life of a Slave Girl in 1861. The personal account detailed her life in the first half of the nineteenth century as an enslaved person in Edenton, North Carolina.

Interpreter of Maladies

"Interpreter of Maladies" is a short story by Jhumpa Lahiri, an American writer of Indian descent. It was first published in 1998 in Agni Review and then reprinted in 1999 as the title story in the author's first short-story collection, which was awarded the Pulitzer Prize. "Interpreter of Maladies" received the ...
